

Aurouze

Awakening

These steps are worn
One more lifetime
Stepped lightly like a dead leaf falls
Coyote's wailing 'cause he's thirsty
No one hears me cry
I had a vision I wrote backward in my notebook

Sometime flies
Someday passes by
I knocked a rock off an old stone wall
Hear it echo like a canyon call

I looked right at you
But your words flew right by
Somehow I cut the cord
These steps are worn
Who passed before you he loved madly
Now he's gone to who knows where
Scratched a heart over the door to remind me

Sometime flies
Someday passes by
I knocked a rock off an old stone wall
Hear it echo like a canyon call
Through sane eyes I checked out without goodbye

I'm lying in bed
With my head on your chest
Our conversation's going on in my head
And it's only in my head
And it's all in my head
In time somewhere someone knows why

These steps are worn
One more lifetime
Stepped lightly like a dead leaf falls
Seduction in the mystery of the road I'm taking
Some tomorrows awaken
If you take them

Sometime flies
Someday passes by
I knocked a rock off an old stone wall
Hear it echo like a canyon call
Some time flies
Someday passes by